He also explained the role of the instructor is now trending toward a focus on developing and supporting learner autonomy, including negotiating with learners over the selection and organization of content and methods. He emphasized the paradigm shift in focus of pedagogy towards student learning rather than mere teaching by faculty. Learning outcomes need to be defined for every course conducted by the university right at the outset so that they serve as a template for further downstream processes of curriculum design and drafting of teaching plan by faculty.
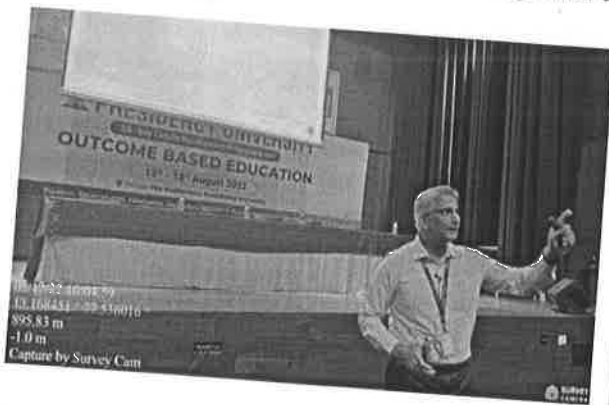

The second speaker of the fourth day was Dr. Sivaperumal S, Dean -Sponsored Research, Presidency University. He has spoken about Project Based Learning and Higher Order Thinking. He has explained how Project-based learning can be more engaging for students than a lecture and make it easier for educators to demonstrate how a topic, in any subject, is applied in the real world. (Assessment); How will I know the student has done this well? (Criteria). Dr Jagdish Godihal highlighted upon Why we need to give more emphasis on setting qualitative and thought provoking question papers based on OBE philosophy using blooms taxonomy It builds evidence for accountability, accreditation and improvement. It shows evidence of how well our students learn and Uses evidence for continuous improvement.

The second speaker of the final day of the FDP was Dr. AM Surendrakumar, Pro-Vice Chancellor, Presidency University. He has spoken about Outcome Based Question Papers and Quality Measurement. He has explained the key aspect of Outcome-Based Education is an assessment of learning outcomes. OBE assessment of the outcomes of the course is the most critical feature required to improve the quality of education. Learning outcomes are concrete, formal statements that state what students are expected to learn in a course. Program Outcomes are the knowledge, skills, and attitudes that students should have at the end of the course. POs can be measured through Course Outcomes which broad statements are indicating knowledge, skills acquired at the end of the course. The results of each course are based on COs and POs. An innovative method is needed for assessing the COs and POs. He has also explained the methodology by using the students' performance in internal assessment, end exam, assignments, and course exit feedback; calculate the attainment of the course. The OBE assists in the creation of effective lesson plans, high-quality question papers, and effective rubrics for course evaluation. The outcome-based approach necessitates a paradigm shift in the curriculum process and how the learner is empowered to achieve outcomes.

The FDP quiz has been conducted online with MS Team Link to fulfill the objective of the FDP.
