Course Name:	INTERNATIONAL REGULATION ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY
Course Code:	LAW408	Credit Structure :	L	T	P	C

			4	0	0	4
--	--	--	---	---	---	---

OBJECTIVE

To provide knowledge in the field of law and practices related to Intellectual Property at international level and to train students to deal with legal and economic aspects of them.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The provision of rights to own intellectual assets generates both benefits and costs for society, stemming from well-known tradeoffs between static and dynamic efficiency requirements and from rent-seeking. In conjunction with various public-goods characteristics of information, these issues imply the need for regulation. Intellectual property rights – patents, trademarks, copyrights, and related devices – are the means by which society defines boundaries within which agents are provided exclusive rights to exploit their intellectual assets. Regulations consists of defining and enforcing the rights, on the one hand, and ensuring that the rights holders do not extend their power beyond intended limits, on the other hand.

The exploitation of intellectual assets has become increasingly central to the international competitive strategies of innovative firms. The course will consider the growing incongruence between territorial application of IPRs and commercial needs for stronger rights internationally underlies considerable unilateral, regional, and multilateral change in the global system. The course will also study the Agreement on Trade-Related Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS), negotiated as a founding component of the World Trade Organisation in detail.

The International Regulation of Intellectual Property. — The WTO Agreement on Trade-Related Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS) will usher in a markedly stronger global system of defining and protecting intellectual property rights (IPRs). This course first discusses the concept of intellectual property and the need for its protection and regulation. It presents evidence on the wide variations in IPRs across countries and discusses how TRIPS will affect these differences. Theoretical predictions about how this stronger system will influence global trade, investment, and technology innovation and diffusion are ambiguous, but limited empirical evidence suggests a modest positive effect overall. However, the distribution of costs and benefits will vary.

Course Code:	LAW302	Credit Structure :	L	T	P	C
			4	0	0	4

OBJECTIVE

To impart basic knowledge about general principles of law on corporate governance and their contemporary significance.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Corporate Governance is a set of relationships between a company's management, its board, its shareholders and other stakeholders. Corporate governance also provides the structure through which the objectives of the company are set, and the means of attaining those objectives and monitoring performance are determined. Good corporate governance should provide proper incentives for the board and management to pursue objectives that are in the interests of the company and shareholders, and should facilitate effective monitoring, thereby encouraging firms to use resources more efficiently.

Generally, Corporate Governance refers to practices by which organisations are controlled, directed and governed. The fundamental concern of Corporate Governance is to ensure the conditions whereby organisation's directors and managers act in the interest of the organisation and its stakeholders and to ensure the means by which managers are held accountable to capital providers for the use of assets. To achieve the objectives of ensuring fair corporate governance, the Government of India has put in place a statutory framework.
