1. Define control as a part of organization. How the control system should be designed?
The control system should be designed in such a way that it should be able to detect the deviation of the actual performance from the standard performance and take corrective action.

2. Define control. What are the objectives of control?
Control is a process by which the activities of the organization are monitored and corrected as necessary to ensure that they conform to the plan and the organization's objectives.

3. Explain the importance of control in an organization.
Control is important because it helps the organization to achieve its objectives. It helps to identify the areas where the organization is performing well and where it is not performing well. It also helps to identify the causes of the deviations and take corrective action.

4. Discuss the different types of control systems.
There are three main types of control systems:
1. Feed-back control: This type of control system uses the information about the actual performance to adjust the plan and the activities of the organization.

2. Feed-forward control: This type of control system uses the information about the expected performance
to adjust the plan and the activities of the organization.

3. Concurrent control: This type of control system uses the information about the performance during the process to adjust the plan and the activities of the organization.

5. Discuss the different types of control systems.
There are three main types of control systems:
1. Feed-back control: This type of control system
uses the information about the actual performance
to adjust the plan and the activities of the organization.

2. Feed-forward control: This type of control system
uses the information about the expected performance

Project Story - A Study On Environmental Degradation

Q Explain your own words 'The Timpur story'?

The Timpur story refers to the rapid industrialization of the city of Timpur in Tamil Nadu, India, particularly in the textile industry. The city has become a major hub for textile production, which has led to significant economic growth. However, this growth has come at a cost as the textile industry has caused significant environmental degradation in the region, particularly in terms of water and air quality. The Timpur story highlights the urgent need for action to address the environmental impact of the textile industry in the region.

§ If the borrower does not pay principal and interest then that amount is considered as non performing asset. The limit is 180 days. The bank should consider all the credit facilities of the borrower as non performing assets. The amount is considered as 'past due' with improvement in payment system in banking it was decided to dispense with 'past due' concept. § If the interest and installment remain over due more than 90 days the account is considered as 'out of order'. Account will again be treated out of order after excess sanction of limit power. In cases where the outstanding balance in the principal operating account is less than the sanctioned limit power but there are no credits for 90 days then it is again treated as out of order.

The business would not have been this stable if it did not change as per the varying situation and remained consistent with their efforts. Finally, we would suggest the firm to expand their market share to various other states as well.

Incorporating digitalization as well as strengthening social capital will allow the firm to ease their manual workload and become much more prosperous. The text above tells the founder of the firm, Mr. Chaganlal Bhorat, and his decision to become an entrepreneur. Mr. Chaganlal had 15 years of experience in agricultural activities and was interested in creating networks and taking active participation in village affairs. He soon realized that agricultural activities would not adequately sustain him or his family, so he decided to pursue the field business. By the time his son joined him in business, Mr. Chaganlal had enough experience to train him and thus we could say that Mr. Bhorat belonged to a business family background. After receiving suggestions from other family members, Mr. Chaganlal decided to initially set up the firm at a small scale. However in the 1990's, his eldest son, Mr. Kishrat Bhorat, took

Proof for work done:

Introduction

- A budget is an accounting plan. It is a formal plan of action expressed in monetary terms. It could be seen as a statement of expected income and expenses under certain anticipated operating conditions. It is a quantified plan for future activities – quantitative blue print for action.

Introduction

- The main features of budgetary control are:
 1. Establishment of budgets for each purpose of the business.
 2. Revision of budget in view of changes in conditions.
 3. Comparison of actual performances with the budget on a continuous basis.
 4. Taking suitable remedial action, wherever necessary.
 5. Analysis of variations of actual performance from that of the budgeted performance to know the reasons thereof.

Functional Classification

Functional Classification:

SALES BUDGET:

Cash Budget

- The cash budget is a sketch of the business estimated cash inflows and outflows over a specific period of time. Cash budget is one of the most important and one of the last to be prepared. It is a detailed projection of cash receipts from all sources and cash payments for all purposes and the resultant cash balance during the budget.
- It is a mechanism for controlling and coordinating the fiscal side of business to ensure solvency and provides the basis for forecasting and financing required to cover up any deficiency in cash. Cash budget thus plays a vital role in the financing management of a business undertaken.

and processing large amounts of available data into information to be used by managers for decision making.

2. explain the types of Information Systems in business.

1. Types of Information System in business:

D) Transaction processing System:-
A transaction processing System (TPS) is used to collect, modify and retransmit business transactions on demand. It is used to update a business's financial records and it can store the records produce business reports for example TPS is used for payroll systems, billing systems.

3) Management Information System:-
MIS studies the people, technology, organization and the relationship between them. MIS can provide information that can be used by the managers to make investment strategies for example MIS helps in data analysis and project management.

1. Explain in your own words "The Timpur Story"

→ Timpur is a town located in the Northern part of Chikmagalur district in the state of Tamil Nadu. It is involved in the manufacturing of textile products in the country.

The town manufactures more than half of the T-shirts produced in India carrying the name "The Banner City". Though Timpur has become India's knitwear capital, it is woefully short on infrastructure and water.

Most of the dyeing and bleaching units in the area are very primitive and pump out effluents, contaminating the ground water and soil. unhygienic and water bodies highly contaminated. Because of the increasing pollution and the ongoing environmental degradation, the court has ordered all units to shut down unless they implement reverse osmosis process in their industries.

There were many groups who were severely affected by the polluted and contaminated water. The industries are now slowly setting up treatment plants to filter the water disposed in the rivers, which might help in controlling the pollution in the area.

Unit 2 INTERNAL CONTROL

Internal Control: Meaning and objectives. Internal Check: Meaning, Objectives and fundamental principles. Internal check as regards: Wage payments, Cash Sales, Cash Purchases. Internal Audit: Meaning – Advantages and Disadvantages of Internal Audit – Differences between Internal Check and Internal Audit

Internal Check Meaning and Definition:

Internal check is the valuable part of the internal control. It is an arrangement of the duties of members of staff in such a manner that the work performed one person is automatically and independently checked by the other.

According to F.R. M.e paula, "internal check means practically a continuous internal audit Carried on by the staff itself, by means of which the work of each individual is independently checked by other members of the staff."
