A Report on Professional Ethics For Students

A work shop on 'Professional Ethics for Students', to inspire to students to embrace professional ethics was facilitated by IPS Dr M. A Saleem on 15th June 2022 in the Presidency University Auditorium. Professional ethics are defined as certain rules that regulate a person's or group's behavior in various professional situations. It is critical that students learn about professional ethics and adhere to these high standards in order to advance their personal and professional development.

It was a really interesting and illuminating session in which students learned in depth about what is expected of them at university as well as values that they must apply even in external work contexts. They were excited to learn how to properly groom and present oneself and understood the importance of the training. To better engage the students, the session was maintained casual and interactive, with many opportunities for students to share their views and opinions.

Key highlights

- The speaker's quiz as an icebreaker game was entertaining and interesting. It energized and captured the students' attention. Students appeared to greatly like answering simple trivia questions ranging from general knowledge to University trivia. Students were prompt and excited to take the quiz.
- The speaker explanation of professional ethics. Honesty and integrity were discussed, as well as respect for others and accountability and responsibility. The speaker took the opportunity to go through the issues in depth, discussing the relevance of each of these principles. The speaker then went on to describe the advantages of adhering to the ethics.
- During the question and answer session, the students had many questions about professional ethics; they had absorbed the information well and were eager to know how to use it in their future employment.

A Report on Professional Ethics For Staff Members

A workshop on 'Professional Ethics among Faculty' was conducted by Dr.Amir Ullah Khan on 24th June 2022 between 2pm-4pm at the Main Auditorium, Presidency University. It is universally felt that the status of the teaching profession needs to be maintained so as to ensure its dignity and integrity. This can be attained by providing knowledge regarding the same. This workshop was facilitated by informing the teaching faculty regarding the 'Professional Ethics' that must be adhered to, ensuring seamless functioning of all teaching departments. The workshop delivered by Dr.Amir was in-depth and informative in nature. He divided the workshop into 5 parts explaining the different facets of ethics that must be followed. 128 teaching faculty attended the workshop.

The facets are as follows:

- Teaching faculty in relation to Students
- Teaching faculty in Relation to Profession, colleagues and other Professional Organizations
- Teaching faculty in relation to Parents and Guardians
- Teaching faculty in relation to Society and the Nation
- Teaching faculty in Relation to Management/ Administration

Highlights of the Event:

The speaker narrated a brief story as an icebreaker for the occasion, outlining the experience of two employees. The narrative was engrossing and motivating; it described the adventures of two employees, one of whom adhered to the ethical code and the other who did not. This was done to raise awareness of how crucial upholding professional ethics is to succeeding at work. This facilitated the creation of an interactive setting in which participants shared insightful contributions from their learning and the audience was asked to provide their comprehension of the story. He continued by educating the audience emphasizing on each of the subjects.

- The first topic's main principles included being on time, preparing thoroughly before each session, refusing to accept payment from the students, and treating every student equally and justly.
- The second facet's main themes included treating each faculty member fairly and professionally, refraining from making baseless accusations against other employees, taking part in programs for faculty development to advance one's career, refraining from offensive remarks and behaviour, communicating clearly, and exhibiting team-building skills.

- Here, he discusses the moral principles that educators must uphold in order to effectively interact with parents and guardians. The most important things are to build friendly relationships with parents, always keep parents and guardians updated on their wards, and avoid doing anything that can erode students' trust in their parents or guardians.

Summary

The content was well received by all workshop attendees, who reported that the workshop was very interesting and significant. Participants reported that the speaker was quite competent and delivered the subject in an easy-to-understand manner. The session concluded on a high note, with both the speaker and the participants pleased with the outcome.
